Your tour will make you appreciate Egyptian history in a whole new way, and your personal tour guide will do his best to answer any questions you have throughout the tour.

King Cheops was the son of Snefru, who was a great builder himself. His father, Snefru, also built the middle pyramid in Giza, and his grandfather, Mycerinus, had the smallest yet not the least significant pyramid that you will see from the plateau while having an optional camel ride in the Giza Pyramids.

Down in the Valley of King Chephren, you can see the royal mummified body of King Chephren. And nearby, on the great Sphinx statue, you can see the carved likeness of a man-headed lion. This is an amazing place to visit!

If you're interested in ancient Egyptian art, you'll love visiting Saqqara—200 years older than the Giza Necropolis and home to some of the finest tombs in the country. Not to mention, the tomb of Kagemni, the vizier of justice and son-in-law of King Teti, is definitely worth a visit.

Let's move on to Mit Rahina, where you'll find an open-air museum full of interesting artifacts from different epochs in ancient Egyptian history. Among these are the alabaster sphinx of Memphis, one of the largest in Egypt, and the gigantic statue of Ramses II, one of the most important kings during the 18th dynasty. Lunch will be a great way to enjoy all the sights and sounds this amazing site has to offer.

Day 3: Islamic Cairo, Coptic Cairo, Egyptian Museum

You'll be able to see some of the most important historical sites in the city, all while learning about the Islamic culture that has influenced Cairo for centuries on Islamic Cairo trips.

You'll see the beautiful medieval fortifications of Cairo, including the Saladin Citadel. This was built by Sultan Saladin in the 12th century to protect Cairo from any possible dangers. Saladin quickly recruited some mercenaries to be used in the Egyptian army, but they soon gained power, wealth, and the support of the people. That thing that made them rule the country before Mohamed Ali Basha got rid of them in a very famous massacre known as the Citadel Massacre

The brilliant alabaster mosque of Mohamed Ali is located inside the beautiful citadel and is considered one of the highest points in Cairo if the weather is clear.

Would you like to explore some of the most important sites in the history of Christianity? Yes, we can show you some of the earliest churches in the world, as well as the site where the Holy Family stayed during their journey from Herod. You will also see one of the oldest synagogues in the Middle East.

Thank you for enjoying a delicious lunch before exploring the market in Khan El Khalili in Cairo's downtown area. Al Hussein was the grandson of the Prophet of Islam, Mohamed (PBUH). This area is full of old mosques from the 9th century, along with lots of mausoleums of the companions and family members of Prophet Mohamed. After lunch, take a walking tour of Cairo's small alleys before being transferred back to your hotel.
